Signatures of our Uniqueness

In high school we tended to put people into groups - "stoners, preppies, black, white, skaters, hippies, straight, gay, rich, poor, liberal, conservative, nerd, geek, etc. etc. etc!" In college, however, we begin to become aware that these old stereotypes aren't 100% true. We realize that we can't just shove people into different categories because they never fit exactly into any one category. We also see how people can change. The guy who we placed in a "preppy" category in high school may have become a "hippy" in college or vice-versa. Clearly people are much more complex than we realized. It may be hard for some of us to deal with this realization. It is always tempting to simply lump people together into convenient and therefore disposable units. Complexities out of sight, complexities out of mind - life stays simple.

Such an attitude is wrong. People are not just parts of groups, they are individuals. Each person is unique. Each is a conglomeration of little pieces of everything she or he has ever experienced. We have all heard the cliché that people are like snowflakes - no two are the same - but this is so true. Even individuals who look almost exactly alike will have different fingerprints. Just look at the signatures at the beginning and end of this book. No two are exactly alike. Each signature represents a unique individual with ideas and attitudes combined in a unique way to create a unique personality.

Here at K-college I have had the opportunity to get to know so many different individuals. And I have learned so very much in the process. Whereas before I might have called everyone "snow", now I try to look at each individual "snowflake" to discern the unique patterns there. (No, I am not trying to say that you are all flaky!) I try to look beyond what the person wears, or what "groups" they belong to, and try to understand them as a unique individual, deserving of my respect for their individuality. I may not agree with all of their ideas or attitudes but I must recognize their right to their own opinions and lifestyle. I must also recognize that just because they belong to certain groups of friends or organizations that it doesn't necessarily make them any better or worse than me. Furthermore, just because they may have, for example, different political views than I, it doesn't mean that we might not have other interests in common. People are complex. If you take a closer look they may surprise you.

We all use stereotypes in our society. However, we must always remember that behind every stereotype lies a unique person, who deserves to be treated as such and whose individual qualities will undoubtedly transcend the borders of any generalization we try to place upon them. Next time you are tempted to generalize or stereotype someone, take a closer look: please remember the Snowflake, the Fingerprint, and the Signature.

Sincerely,

Heather Carstens

Human beings, when perfected, are the best of animals; but, when separated from law and justice, they are the worst of all; since armed injustice is the more dangerous, and they are equipped at birth with arms, meant to be used by intelligence and excellence, which they may use for the worst ends.

Christmas, Seasonal Signatures

The Kalamazoo College Singers, led by Mr. Peter Hopkins, pause briefly after the Advent concert in which they sang carols and hymns.

An anticipation of Christmas joy, the chapel fills with one of the largest audiences of the year for its Advent service.

K'94 student Curt Korten reads at the podium.

The K' Handbells, led by Mr. Russell Cooper, rings in the season. Speaker Davey Gerhard reads of Christmas. Invoking the story of the holiday, a speaker reminds her audience of the season's importance.

Evidence of Dedication

Open your eyes, sweet senior time has come to begin again
Think back
Think back

Freshman Year:

maybelline mania
herds of antenna hair at Saga redneck mustaches --- gone by second week football hair -- short and to the point squeegie bottles with Kool - aid and vodka sex at 7, 8, and 9 . . . on TV (sing) Everybody Dance Now!
God is a yogurt machine

Sophomore Year:

blend into the woodwork
God is a full-service salad bar

Junior Year:

Quadstock hangover
post Europe goatees
who the fuck cares ponytails
smoker's cough
who are these freshman?
God fired Diane

Senior Year:

hair cut -- interviews ("do not pass go . . .") too stressed for hygiene o
SIP hair
comps zits ("you fail")
senior pledge ("give us money") LACC's cancelled ("welcome super senior") last-chance hook-ups
God is the dessert bar

Suck in your gut breath deeply of your past and let the future come.

Submitted by the four seniors of the apocalypse (graduation)
