To Mrs. Ronald C. McCreary . . .

for her skillful guidance, sincere interest and friendship, and genuine sense of fair play as Dean, teacher, and counselor, we proudly and gratefully dedicate this 1950 Boiling Pot.

Administration • Faculty

The changes in administration and faculty are symbolized by the subtle transition from the square into a rhythmic series of rectangles. Vertical lines are used in the background to reveal the strength and dignity predominant in our present administration. The design, or purpose, of the administrative body is to advise and guide us, with sincerity and integrity, in our present day thinking, and to help us realize our future responsibilities.
In keeping with the economic, social, and political changes seen and experienced in the nations of the world today, change and innovation have also made their impression this year on the life of our college campus. Coincident with the turn of the century, the colorful, autumnal inauguration of Dr. John Scott Everton as the eleventh president of Kalamazoo College marked a turn in administrative policy and ushered in an era of greater understanding and cooperation among the various campus groups. We have been fortunate this year in having an administration that not only has seen the necessity of real integration, but also has made great strides in meeting the need of drawing the many threads of practical experience and theoretical, textual information into a common unity that will carry meaning into the exigencies of life. Students and faculty have advanced toward the realization of their common aims and have been inspired to work together with the administration for the well-being and the richer experience of the college family. Evidence for this has been in the greater student representation on administrative levels. Through teas, dinners, and Faculty-Student Council meetings, a concerted and determined effort has been made to bring the administration, students, and faculty to a greater appreciation of each other's views and to the fuller realization of the keynote of our administrative policy—"a fellowship in learning."

Like the administration, the college faculty this year has also undergone change in personnel and in policy.

Several departments have been strengthened in line with the concept that all phases of academic life should be worthy of similar recognition. Among the departments receiving such stimulation were the Psychology, Sociology, English, and German divisions. The Biology, Spanish, Physics, Art, Music, and Physical Education departments also gained new personnel.

With new personalities and new courses came methods and ideologies that have stimulated and have challenged those existing, although the basic ideals and purposes of both the new and the traditional elements are in reality the same.

Beginning in September with the orientation program in which faculty advisers and student counselors cooperated in acquainting new students with campus life, definite progress has been made toward a fuller student-faculty understanding. This genuine interest and reciprocal concern continued throughout the year in faculty homes, at student-faculty parties, and at coffee hours, as well as in the usual classrooms and seminars. Good sportsmanship, like that displayed in the Campus Chest auction, highlighted faculty participation in the year's all-college activities.

Besides directing students in classroom lectures and discussions and in informal conferences, many of the faculty are active in community affairs and business. A wide variety of interests in such fields as athletics, astronomy, horticulture, literature, and the fine arts characterizes their avocational activities.

Wide experience and such diversified interests, combined with a searching knowledge of their respective fields of study, have added spark to class discussions, and have served to reveal to students the fact that all learning does not come from textbooks. True wisdom must result from the blending of broad, practical experience with the more intellectual and theoretical knowledge obtained from books.

In Memoriam...

DR. ROBERT F. CORNELL this spring was called to higher service. A graduate of Cornell College, he received his doctorate from the University of Michigan, and faithfully served Kalamazoo College for thirty years. Not only as professor to political science students, but as Director of the Bureau of Municipal Research, he has been worthy of the respect and affection of all who knew him. His influence in the college and community remain a living inspiration to all who carry on his work.

JOHN BURGER, custodian of Stetson Chapel, since September, 1947, will also be missed by students and faculty alike. With a friendly smile and greeting for all, he cheerfully gave his service at all times.

Students

The instability and confusion that are prevalent in our student body, as in all colleges of this era, are illustrated by disquieting oblique lines incorporated in a design based upon geometric triangular forms. The diagonal line brings us as students into a campus society where, through the faculty, the curriculum, diversified events, and a Christian environment, we may develop a deeper understanding of life’s meaning and design, thus progressing from confusion toward a calm maturity of mind.
Student activities, academic, social, and cultural, occupy a major portion of life on the college campus. While most of these activities are campus-wide and participation is open to all the students, certain events take place in relation to specific classes.

The Freshman class received the main attention of the college in the first weeks following the opening of school. With their distinctive green hats and harassed expressions, the Freshmen were exposed to many of the traditions of Kalamazoo College—providing half-time entertainment at the football games by pushing peanuts across the field with their noses, keeping the wood for the Homecoming bonfire from being ignited by enemy forces, and decorating one of the buildings on campus for Homecoming. After thus being officially initiated into college life, the Freshmen began to make individual and group contributions to the total life on campus. Recognition of scholastic achievement was offered to the women by Alpha Lambda Delta, national freshman women’s honorary society. Social life was enriched by a dance and an open house sponsored by the Freshman class, and by the activity surrounding the annual society initiations.

The Sophomore and Junior classes, while active as separate groups, contributed their main support to all-campus activities. The Juniors staged a hay ride for the student body, and both classes took part in selling concessions at football and basketball games.

As members of the largest Senior class in the history of Kalamazoo College, this year’s Seniors were occupied with many activities and responsibilities, since, traditionally, the majority of the highest offices in the student government and organizations are held by Seniors. Several Seniors obtained scholarships for graduate study. Other functions in which the class participated as a whole were: the annual Faculty-Senior Party, Senior Skip Day, and Founders’ Day, when caps and gowns were donned for the first time. A trophy case for the gym was selected by the class as a farewell gift to the school.

Although the student body is composed of four classes, each with its own functions, no class can exist exclusively; rather, class boundaries are exceeded by cooperation and fellowship. Coming from all parts of the country, the students have learned that distances dissolve when friendships begin. Purposes and goals may differ and may change during the four years, but the friendships made and fellowship experienced are inextinguishable and form the unforgettable entity of college life.

A variety of activities and organizations, represented by the manifold shapes in the design, contribute toward the social development of the student. Horizontal lines symbolize the relaxing break from study that extracurricular activities provide.
Although the campus groups and organizations have been well organized in the past as separate units, coordination has been lacking among those organizations which have to do with the majority of the student body, particularly with the societies and governmental groups. This year attempts were made to integrate campus activity into a more meaningful whole. The Inter-society Council was thus formed to create a fuller degree of cooperation among the societies. In regulating initiation procedures and in guiding the societies toward goals of service, it has served a definite need on campus.

A greater amount of coordination between faculty and students has also evolved in the Faculty-Student Council, created this year for the purpose of discussing issues involving the entire student body. The Council may also recommend measures to the Student Senate, the official representative of the student body.

Students have been given more responsibility in their own government. For the first time, The Index has been given the right to print controversial news and editorials without censure; and in several instances the House Councils have been further enabled to carry out campus policies.

Music has played an important part in Chapel services, and with the presentation of an opera and a tour by the choir to Detroit, and with various concerts given by both vocal and instrumental groups, the music organizations have become more fully recognized and better appreciated.

Society activity formed a major part of the social life during the year, dances, banquets, and picnics having been sponsored and presented by the various societies. Traditionally, the major emphasis is on pledging with all the attendant initiation activities, both formal and informal. Homecoming competition in building decorations also provided opportunity for society action. Particularly noticeable was a definite interest in service projects, an interest prevalent in the Women's League and Men's Union as well. The League furnished a room at the Community Center, and a Christmas party was given by the Men's Union for underprivileged children, to mention only two.

School publications and the campus radio station were also fields of greater participation this year. Adequate coverage of college news as well as some well written editorials and feature articles made The Index a well read topic of discussion and a real instrument of student opinion. Having begun plans last summer, The Boiling Pot staff has endeavored throughout the year to make this yearbook one that will be not only comprehensive and commemorative, but also one that will be lastingly enjoyable and meaningful. The campus station, WJMD, became a regularly established feature on campus, broadcasting regularly from its well equipped office, with news, music, and special programs of interest.

Speech and drama activities were in the spotlight frequently this year. As in the past, a well organized Players Club contributed considerably to the fine stage productions offered. In various speech contests throughout the year, several of the students won prizes and rightly deserved honor.

Other organizations on campus contributed their share to the total campus picture. Language clubs and the International Relations and Economics clubs enriched the cultural and intercultural atmosphere, while religious and service organizations deepened the students' spiritual awareness. In helping to develop talent, leadership, the desire to serve, and a cultural and practical knowledge in the student, campus organizations have proven themselves an integral and essential part of a college education.

The activities calendar this year was studi­ed with a variety of social events. Mingled with the traditional and familiar happenings were new and unexpected experiences; but, in all instances, the traditional activities were governed by the spice of new per­sonalities and ideas, and were accompanied by the inevitable excitement and curiosity.

September began the year with the week of orientation for new students. During that month, green hats, student counselors, informal picnics, conferences with faculty ad­visers, and registration procedures were prominent. New friendships were begun and old ones renewed, while the summer drifted into reminiscence and campus activity re­sumed once again.

October, the herald of Indian Summer, brought Homecoming with its decorations, floats, open houses, football game, and dance in Tredway. Lynnette Minzey was crowned Homecoming Queen and ruled the day with her court. The celebration began with an all-school parade through the town, that ended with a huge bonfire at Angell Field.

November featured “The Winslow Boy,” a College Players production that well de­served the merit it received. The 1949 Var­sity Hop was also presented by The “K” Club. Dottie Engdahl was elected Varsity Queen ‘49, and trophies were awarded to the All-MIAA football star, Howard South­worth and to the team’s “most valuable player” of the season, James Nawrot.

December continued the tradition of the annual Christmas Carol Service, during which Nancy Murch reigned as the Spirit of Christmas, while Elizabeth Osborn rea d the “Christmas Story” from the Book of Luke. “Winter Wonderland,” the year’s first formal fantasy, was sponsored by the Women’s League. As the month especially devoted to good will and brotherhood, December, and George Barry as Santa Claus, brought some unexpected and pleasant surprises to the children of the town who were entertained at the Men’s Union party in Harmon Hall. At the Mary Trowbridge House party, carols were sung and a reading of “The Littlest Angel” captivated the audience of Jane Tyndal.
Activities (CONT'D)

January, the month of final exams, was also the time of the College Singers' operatic production "The Bartered Bride." Through the cooperation of the Speech, Art, and Music departments, the performance was most successful. Coming in the early part of the month, the "Knights' Ball," presented by the Resident Men, was noted most of all for its unique decorations and atmosphere.

February was climax ed by The 1950 Washington Banquet, reputed to be the most outstanding social event of the year. Judge Raymond Fox addressed the attendees, and the banquet was followed by the annual dance in Tredway Gymnasium.

March, summoner of The Fourth Annual Bach Festival, gave us Religious Emphasis Week, with Dr. Howard S. Thurman and Dr. Dwight S. Large, two stimulating thinkers, leading the Chapel talks and bull sessions. The month drew to a close with the Women's League Style Show in Trowbridge lounge.

April first introduced the era of "Fools' Paradise," the Trowbridge House formal dance. Coincident with April's showers, the Women's League presented "A Shower of Careers," which included a series of luncheons and talks given by women in various professional fields.

May was ushered in by the May Fete, which featured tug o' war between classes, handicap races between societies, open houses, professional tennis matches at Stowe Stadium, and a concert by the College band on the quadrangle in the evening. During the intermission, the coronation of Elizabeth Osborn as May Queen took place, and the concert was followed by the dance in Tredway, at which Charlie Ventura and his band were featured.

The activities of the year have given to college educational experience that balancing element that allows students to become aware of the value of the social relationships in learning, as well as of the importance of the intellectual and organizational aspects of education.

The graceful movement and rhythmic finesse attributed to the athlete are expressed by the circle and several projected ellipses. The conditioned form and easy, athletic style are devoid of repetition, as are the free-flowing curved lines in design.
Sports at Kalamazoo College maintained an overall high level during the 1949-50 seasons with the year in athletics highlighted by several outstanding events.

In football, the team won two of eight games and finished fifth in the MIAA in a season jinxed by injuries. The gridders started off with a 13-7 defeat of DePauw, and lost a 20-26 thriller to Wooster in the next game. Key players were on the sidelines, however, and the Hornets never did function at full strength the rest of the season.

Albion was defeated, 21-7, spoiling the Briton's Homecoming, for Kazoo's only conference triumph. Fourteen members of this fall's team graduate, presenting coach Lloyd Grow with a rebuilding task for next year.

Post-season honors went to Milton Christie, named honorary captain; Howard Southworth, the first recipient of the Clark W. MacKenzie trophy for the most outstanding lineman, and named a second time as All-MIAA center; Earl King, voted to an all-conference tackle's berth; and James Nawrot selected as the team's most valuable player.

The cross country team finished a surprising second in the conference in its first year under coach Samuel Brown. The Hornets were edged by defending champion Albion, 56-59, in the conference meet, after defeating all but the Britons in dual tests. Captain Fred Winkler led the team, placing fourth in the conference race.

Kalamazoo's triumph in basketball was the year's outstanding achievement. The Hornets won the MIAA title with an 8-2 record, and won thirteen of twenty games during the regular season. They also finished second in a January conference tourney.

Climaxing the cage season was the team's appearance in the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball tournament at Kansas City, Mo. K College lost 78-84, to Baldwin-Wallace, but stamped itself as one of the nation's outstanding small-college teams.

Nine new team and individual scoring records were set by the Hornets during the year. Frank Walters, Charlie Stanski and Bill Bos were named to the All-MIAA team, Walters and Stanski for the second time.

Walters also won the MIAA's coveted "most valuable" award for the second straight year. Bos received the Harold S. Garrison Memorial trophy, and Stanski was elected captain for the season.

The freshman basketball team had a successful year, winning ten of eleven games. John Stommen and Phillip Dillman led the yearlings.

Spring sports all started off with winning records, with the Hornet tennis team heavily favored to retain its MIAA tennis title. Jack Sunderland, Marvin Mantin, Dick Cain, Tom Willson, Gordon Dalbee, Bradley Allen and Frank Walters are leading coach Allen B. Stowe's squad.

The track team is headed for its best post-war season. Coach Ernest Kirkman's stars Walter McConner, Melvin Reed, Dan Gwyn, and the mile relay team of Stanley Chadmers, Dan Van Horn, Reed and McConner all set new records in their specialties.

Baseball, in its second year under coach Henry Lasch, and golf both began their seasons auspiciously, with the teams set to better last year's records.
Post-season football honors went to the four players pictured at left. From top to bottom they are Howard (Gus) Southworth, Earl King, James Nawrot and Milton Christen. All four are former South Bend, Ind., Central high school players, they have been outstanding on Hornet football teams since 1946.

Southworth became the first recipient of the Clark W. MacKenzie trophy for the most valuable lineman. He was All-MIAA center in 1947 and again last fall. King was named to an All-MIAA tackle berth; he was the team’s most valuable player in 1946.

Nawrot was elected by his teammates as the squad’s most valuable player, and he was named a halfback on the second all-conference team. Christen was named honorary captain for the season. An end, he led conference pass-receivers and made the second All-MIAA team.

The 1949 Hornet football team completed its season with a 2-6 record, worst since 1940, and placed fifth in the MIAA. A tough schedule plus injuries to key players handicapped the gridders most of the fall.

In their first season under Coach Lloyd (Dish) Grow, the Hornets opened with a 13-7 win over DePauw. Freshman quarterback Phil Dillman threw two touchdown passes to end George Mason and halfback Vito Tutera, with tackle Conrad Hinz adding a point after touchdown. Kazaoo fell to Wooster, 20-26, the following weekend in probably the best game of the year.

After losing the Homecoming game to Hillsdale, Kazaoo spoiled Albion’s alumni weekend with a 21-7 verdict over the Britons. Dick Cain took over passing duties and tossed to ends Mill Christen and Garry Brown for scores. Bob Simanton, the team’s leading ground gainer, added the third TD. Hinz kicked all three placements.

Losses to Valparaiso, Adrian, Alma and Hope ended the season.

A heavy loss by graduation hit Kazaoo for the first time since the war. Senior gridders include Val Jablonski, Milton Christen, Horace Webb, James Edwards, Alvin (Dough) Bourgeois, Charles Wright, Hal (Ace) Candoli, Noble Sievers, Howard (Gus) Southworth, Kenneth Youngs, James Nawrot, Robert Distin and Spencer Burns. Many of them have starred on Hornet football teams since 1946.

Twenty-two returning lettermen, however, bolster K College’s 1950 football plans.
Cross Country

The Hornet cross country team had a very successful season under coach Samuel Brown. The harriers won four of five dual meets and came within three points of upsetting Albion's perennial champions in the MIAA cross country run, finishing second in the conference.

After an initial 40-15 loss to Albion, the Hornets defeated Hillsdale, 13-40; Adrian, 23-36; Alma, 26-33; and Hope, 28-30. In the conference meet, K College scored 59 points for second place, to 56 for Albion.

Captain Fred Winkler placed 4th in the MIAA run; Hector Grant was 10th; Tom Hastings, 11; Bob Ketcham, 13; Bill Zuhl, 21; Bob Binhammer, 22; and John Stommen, 30th.

Varsity letters were won by Winkler, Ketcham, Grant, Hastings, Zuhl, and Don Overbeek. Binhammer and Stommen received minor awards. Grant and Overbeek are the only losses by graduation.

Post-season honors for Kazoo's MIAA basketball champions went to the three seniors at left. All three were named to the all-conference team.

Frank Walters, top, was named the team's most valuable player for the third straight year, most valuable in the MIAA a second time, and he won the conference scoring title again plus setting new Kazoo scoring records.

Bill Bos, middle, was awarded the Harold S. Garrison Memorial Trophy for his outstanding play during the season.

Charlie Stanski, bottom, was elected captain of the champion Hornets. Next year he will be assistant football and basketball coach.

Kalamazoo College's basketball team won the MIAA cage title this year for the first time since 1939, and completed one of Kazoo's most successful basketball campaigns by playing in the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball tournament at Kansas City, Mo., in March.

Coach Lloyd (Dob) Grow's Hornets won the MIAA title with an 8-2 record, won thirteen of twenty games during the season, and in the NAIB tourney lost to Baldwin-Wallace of Ohio, 78-84.

Nine new records were set by the cagers, highest-scoring team in Hornet basketball history. Frank (Bucky) Walters scored 305 points for a new single-season total, and increased his four-year total to another high mark of 816. His 89 free throws in one season also set a new high. Bill Bos scored 286 points to rank second in one year's total, and his 116 field goals set a new all time-high for one season.

As a team, the cagers scored 1252 points, averaging 59.6; and they made 473 field goals and 306 free throws, all new marks. The 87 points and 34 field goals against Olivet are both new single-game standards. Baldwin-Wallace's 84 points were the most ever scored against a Hornet team, and the combined 162 point total in that game also set a new high mark.

Best home games were 60-43 over Wooster, a jinx-breaking 65-53 triumph over Albion, and the 87-54 scoring-spree over Olivet. On the road, the 55-50 victory at Alma that clinched the MIAA title stood out.

Five graduating seniors this year are Stanski, Walters, Bos, Bill Sayers and Don Culp. All except Bos have been on Hornet cage teams since 1946.

Sophomore Tom Wilson placed sixth in MIAA scoring with 111 points, and his 28 points against Hillsdale were a conference and team season high mark.
The freshman cagers had a highly successful year, winning ten of eleven games. They defeated the Hope and Hillsdale frosh each twice, won five games from city league teams, and split two games with Calvin’s freshmen.

John Stommen led the team in scoring with 158 points for a 14.4 point per game average. Phillip Dillman was second in scoring with 106 points. The frosh outscored their opposition, 536 to 425.

With the addition of Vic Broden after the first semester, the team became a junior varsity group. Team members were Stommen, Dillman, Broden, Robert Neeser, James Stefoff, Dick Enslen, Jack Bergan, Alan Clark, and Darrell Ihrig.

The 1950 golf team should prove to be Kazoo’s best since the war, with six lettermen back from last year. Last spring the golfers won three matches, tied one and lost five, finishing fourth in the MIAA.

This year’s schedule calls for matches with Calvin and Olivet in addition to the MIAA opponents. Each match with a league school counts toward the conference title. The MIAA golf tourney was held in Kalamazoo May 18 and 19.

In their first six matches this spring, the golfers defeated Alma’s defending MIAA champs, 10½-8½, and Adrian, 18-1; tied Olivet 9½-9½; and Calvin 7½-7½; and lost to Hope 8-11, and Hillsdale 7-12.
Kazoo’s tennis team, defending MIAA and Central Collegiate champion, faced a tough 23-match schedule this spring, with the only real trouble expected on the annual Southern trip and the Central Collegiate tourney.

The Hornets will be favored to cap their 13th consecutive MIAA title in the conference tournament at Kalamazoo. Heading Coach Allen B. Stowe’s team for the fourth year is Jack Sunderland, sixth-ranked player in the Western Lawn Tennis Association, and MIAA and Central Collegiate singles champion.

Missing from this year’s team, however, are two of last spring’s top netters. Art Leighton turned professional during the summer, and Vic Braden was lost for the season because of illness.

Sunderland, Marvin Mantin, Dick Cain, Tom Willson, Gordon Dolbee, Bradley Allen and Frank Walters comprised the squad’s top seven netters. In all, fifteen men made up the Hornet varsity.

Down South, the team made its worst showing since 1947, winning three of seven matches with some of the best teams in the South. The Hornets downed Cincinnati, Vanderbilt and Presbyterian; while Davidson, Tennessee, Duke and North Carolina all took the measure of Kazoo.

Returning home, the netters ran roughshod over all comers. In one weekend, Stowe divided the squad, with one group shutting out the University of Iowa and Grinnell on the road, while another defeated Alma at home.
Kazoo's thinclds set nine new records in the first six meets this spring, with Walter McConner and Melvin Reed accounting for six.

McConner lowered the college and Angell Field mark of 220 record to :22.1 seconds, and the next week broke that with a :21.8 performance. In the 440, he set a new college time of :50.3, and then lowered that to :49.8.

Reed set a new college mark of :15.6 seconds in the high hurdles, and a Field record of :24.8 in the low barriers. Dan Gwyn set a new Field record of 182 feet 4 inches in the javelin.

The Hornet track team is having its best season since the war, with ten lettermen and many outstanding newcomers forming the nucleus of Coach Ernest Kirkman's first Kazoo track team.

In their first five meets, the thinclds scored two dual wins, 90½-37½ over Valparaiso, and 96-36 over Calvin; won two triangular meets, in one scoring 94-1/5 points to 35-7/10 for Hope and 32-1/10 for Grand Rapids JC, and totaling 82½ points to 50 for Adrian and 29½ for Alma in the other; and lost to Albion, 44-87.

Lettermen include Stanley Chalmers, Bob Chamberlain, Melvin Reed, Don Van Horn, Fred Winsler, Milton Christan, Kryn Ihrman, Howard Merchant, Everett Bierema and Bob Binhammer.

Outstanding new men are Walter McConner, Lee Van Halten, Bob Neeser, Roger Burns, Edward Yaple, David Allen, Maurice Knoer and Jim Stefko.
Baseball entered its second season in twenty-one years at K College with Coach Henry Lasch’s team expected to improve on last spring’s 5-8 record. Nine lettermen and many promising newcomers strengthen the Hornet cause.

Veterans include pitchers Gordon Ferris, last year’s top hurler; and Bill Fry; infielders Harley Pierce, Chandler Moulton and Bob Prudon; and outfielders Alvin Bourgeois, Edward Glaser and Eugene Koehlinger.

Newcomers Kenneth Mosier, James Stefoff, Jack Wendt, Stanley Pavlic and Darol Topp are highly-regarded.

Of their first seven league games, the Hornets won three, defeating Adrian, 10-7; Hope, 2-1; and Hillsdale’s defending champions, 5-4. Losses were absorbed from Albion, 1-9; Alma, 3-5 and 2-6; and Adrian, 3-11. Outside the conference the baseballers dropped a 13-7 decision to Fort Custer, and lost to Central Michigan, 2-3, in their first nine games.

Ferris, Stefoff and Topp are the team’s most effective pitchers, while Glaser is the top batter.
Intramural athletics enjoyed a banner year at K College, with the students participating in thirteen sports under the direction of Henry Lasch. John Lenox capably served as student manager of intramurals under Lasch.

With four spring sports remaining to be completed, the Kazoo Married Men are leading the team race, followed by Hoben South, Harmon West, Hoben North, Harmon East and the KMM.

In touch football, Hoben North won the coveted title by winning a three-way playoff between North, Hoben South, and the KMM. Bill Bos was high scorer of the season with 5 touchdowns for 30 points. Harmon West copped the track meet with 23 points, although picking up only two first places.

The “B” cage title went to the Kazoos, also with a 9-1 season record. Val Jablonski led the league with 66 points. In table tennis, Marc Mantin edged Bill Bos for the title; and in badminton, Lee Koopsen defeated Bos in the finals.

The bowling title went to the Kazoos with a 2,292 team score. Lloyd Fowler, Kazoo, hit 535 for the individual high series, while Bill Gershon had 222 for high game. In the bowling singles tourney, Tom Wallace of Harmon East won with 1,102 for six games.

HARMON WEST annexed the swimming title, taking four first places. In boxing, Hoben South led the way with three individual champions. Harmon West also won the wrestling crown, taking two individual titles. Foul shooting was won by the Kazoo, while Dan Shoup hit 92 of 100 for individual honors.

An intramural sports night was held at Albion College, with Kazoo winning in basketball, volleyball and table tennis singles over the Albion intramural teams.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The editor wishes to express her appreciation to all those who have cooperated in the publication of the 1950 Boiling Pot. Especially she would like to thank: Dr. Walter W. Waring for his assistance. The Faculty Committee on Student Publications, Mr. Joseph Schiavone of Schiavone Company, Mr. Edward Louth of the Department of Public Relations, and the student staff for their loyal assistance.

The picture of Dr. Everett was taken by Livinger, the September activities and 1949 May Court by The Gazette, the picture of Hubba Holl by Word C. Mengers, and the Adrian, Decatur, Hillsdale, and Hope basketball pictures by Hal Fuller. All other photography was done by Schiavone Studio.
