THE 1959 BOILING POT
KALAMAZOO, MICHIGAN
MANY doors are open to the student of Kalamazoo College and each serves to add something to his knowledge, character, and understanding. Not only the present high academic standing of our school but over one-hundred twenty-five years of tradition give Kalamazoo College a reputation as men of polite learning and liberal education. The door to life opened at commencement will not be an end to learning or creativity. As thinking and questioning men and women, our graduates are on the threshold of a rewarding life. For a moment, though, look back and see the doors and the life of Kalamazoo College open .....
"Safe in the hallowed quiets of the past."

"We walk by faith, not by sight..."

"The Bible teaches man his own individual responsibility, his own dignity, and his equality with his fellow-man."

"There let the pealing organ blow,
To the full voiced choir below,
In service high, and anthems clear..."

"Many receive advice, only the wise profite by it."

"Because we believe that the broader concepts of religion are at the very core of the intellectual scheme, we shall try to help each student evolve a faith, or philosophy of life, which will make him a stronger, more dedicated individual, better able to cope with the necessities of life."

Dr. Weimer K. Hicks

"The Bible teaches man his own individual responsibility, his own dignity, and his equality with his fellow-man."
"Consider what you have in the smallest chosen library. A company of the wisest and wiliest men that could be picked out of all civil countries, in a thousand years, have set in best order the results of their learning and wisdom."

"A good book is the precious life-blood of a master-spirit…"

"A good book is the precious life-blood of a master-spirit…"

"A good book is the purest essence of a human soul."

"Learning must be won by study."

"Simple as it seems, it was a great discovery that the key of knowledge could turn both ways, that it could open, as well as lock, the door of power to the many."

"There is no past, so long as books shall live!"

"A good book is the purest essence of a human soul."

"Learning must be won by study."
"Thought once awakened does not again slumber."

"Truth is truth to the end of the reckoning."

"Energy is but a name for something absolutely primal which we cannot analyze or comprehend but only measure in science."

"He in whom the love of truth predominates ... submits to the inconvenience of suspense and imperfect opinion; but he is a candidate for truth ... and respects the highest law of his being."

"The spirit of science is the spirit of courage."

"Intellectual curiosity is very dangerous. Once you start questioning, you don’t know what’s going to happen."

"Emerson"
"Thinking is the hardest work there is, which is the probable reason so few engage in it."

"He is wise who can instruct us and assist us in the business of daily virtuous living."

"Never regard study as a duty, but as the enviable opportunity to learn to know the liberating influence of beauty in the realm of the spirit for your own personal joy and to the profit of the community to which your later work belongs."

"Whence is thy learning? Hath thy toil over books consumed the midnight oil?"
"All art is a kind of subconscious madness expressed in terms of sanity."

"Music resembles poetry for each are nameless graces which no methods teach and which no master hand alone can teach."

"For art, if it is to be reckoned as one of the great values of life, must teach man humility, tolerance, wisdom and magnanimity. The value of art is not beauty, but right action."

"It is not necessary to understand music technically. The chief thing is to enjoy it."

"To make the weepers laugh, the laughter weeps. He had the dialect and different skill catching all passion in his craft of will."

"A man who works with his hands and his brain and his heart is an artist."

"To creativity"
"Let the mind some relaxation take to come back to its task with fresher heed."

"Happiness is much more dependent on the mental attitude than on external resources. This would be an absurdly obvious platitude were it not for the fact that 99 out of 100 persons do not believe it."

"Television is slowly taking the place of entertainment."

"Cooking is become an art, a noble science; cooks are gentlemen."

Nicole Boutry recreates a bit of Paris for the French floor.
In its athletic policy, Kalamazoo College has always encouraged its students to compete in their chosen sports. The appreciation of this interest is evidenced in the wide student participation, each student gaining in skill and character.

Preparation for the game.

The joys of battle.

A conference of the chiefs of staff:
Coaches Rolla Anderson, Warren Thomas, George Ackley, and Ray Steffen.

Picking up yardage for the Hornets.

The girls compete, too.
An informal evening at the home of President Hicks.

"Take my counsel, happy man; act upon it, if you can."

"On with the dance! Let joy be unconfined!"

"Kalamazoo College is a Fellowship in learning. It is not land and buildings. These are but the shell of a congenial group life that has persisted here for more than a century."

When good friends get together: the coffee hour.

That popular pastime: conferring over coffee.
"The margin of uniqueness of Kalamazoo College is found in our sincere belief in the value of the liberal arts as a strength for a free society; in the Christian heritage which commits it to a constant search for the eternal truths, and in the individualized program which bring its undergraduates under the benign influence of a consecrated faculty."

President Weimar K. Hicks
In the annals of Kalamazoo College, 1958-59 will probably be remembered as "the year after," for the glamorous 125th will inevitably overshadow the years contiguous to the Anniversary. Yet such a classification is unfair, since the current year promises in its own right to be an important page in the ongoing life of the College. Different, to be sure, but important none-the-less.

What of 1958-59? What is its role in the unfolding drama of the College? As the semester nears its end, one can look back upon it with pride, firm in the belief that in campus attitudes and student leadership the College has achieved a new high. The intellectual zeal of the students, the leadership of the Senate, the response to co-curricular activities, and the overall tone characterizing the entire family bespeak a commendable year. Even a disappointing football season failed to dampen the ardor of campus spirit.

One would like to think that this rapport reflects the growing stature of the College. It may well connote the steadily improving quality of the student who enrolls with the intellectual tools to be challenged by and interested in ideas. It may reflect, too, the increased national prestige resulting from the Chicago Tribune rating and the recognition of the College as a training ground for embryonic Ph. D.'s. Certainly one day of the year, December 9, 1958, will take its place among the landmarks of our history, for on this day Kalamazoo installed its chapter of Phi Beta Kappa.

Yes, our progeny may remember 1958-59 as "the year after," but to you and to me who have lived through its days, it will remain a thing apart—to you because it recalls rich and unforgettable experiences long to be cherished, and to the faculty because it identifies a period in which student life reached a promising new level.

May this volume help to imprint the happenings of the year indelibly upon your minds, and may you look with gratification upon the events which it records.
Inevitably the members of the Faculty have their pet jokes, their autobiographical anecdotes; anything else is inconceivable in any faculty made up of real men and women. And just as inevitably the students quickly learn to identify them, so that the gleams in the eyes of a class sometimes warn a teacher that the students know that a familiar jest is coming up. Recalling their own college days, the faculty members—at least those who have remained reasonably young in heart—understand that their idiosyncrasies are bandied about in the student societies and in the college halls. And occasionally, by accident, they taste the flavor of eavesdropping on such revelations. Not the least of the joys of teaching is such an encounter that is not on the agenda of education.

Dr. Arnold Mulder
After four years of preparation, the Class of 1959 eagerly enter into the doorway of Life. Their graduation is the commencement of new interests and achievements. Although friends part, there remains with each of them the unity of their common college experience.

THE BOILING POT
"Schools are an anomaly. They are designed to do two things: to pass on the culture and to help the young to grow into their adult role. Without changing a word in that second sentence, we can apply it to our worst and our best schools. A school can pass on the culture and help the student to find his adult role — and can end up by making him a complete reactionary and a routineer. Or it can pass on the culture and help the student to find his adult role in such a way that he becomes a liberal-minded co-creator of man's future and a person of unique powers."

Whatever the formal record, students are people, and people have a disconcerting way of being unpredictable. In the middle thirties, even as now, there were examples of young men and women who gave every promise of a brilliant record but who nevertheless proved that as material they were below the norm ideally set for the College. [All fairness it should be added that perhaps an equal number who were admitted with fingers crossed balanced by their unexpectedly good records the educational budgets from year to year and from generation to generation. While complacency is out of place, a sense of reassurance as to the totality of the student product would seem to be justified.]
CREATIVE ORGANIZATIONS AND ACTIVITIES

To the college student, time is a tyrant. It is the all-compelling, ever limiting ingredient of his life. Only as the student escapes his concern with the seemingly confining routine of college life can he attain any level of enjoyment of extracurricular groups and activities. No one can justly accuse Kalamazoo College of being utilitarian in its extracurricular tastes, but this could easily occur unless there is full and constant student attention and interest in the area of college life outside the academic.
HOME COMING

Homecoming is always the big weekend of the fall season. A spirit of nostalgia overtakes the campus as many former graduates return to experience once again the spirit of Kalamazoo College. To the students of today, Homecoming brings a sharper focus their inheritance of tradition. The mood created by the Friday night parade was never lost. Through Saturday passed events which are now pleasant memories, the crowning of the queen, a cross-country meet, an outdoor barbecue, and a semi-formal dance, as well as the all-important football game.

1959
"It seems to me that the internal flexibility of the Senate has increased greatly in the past year. This year the Senate has been challenged by some very important problems, and it has responded. The success of the Senate is dependent upon the individual ability of each of its members. There is no autonomous organization that automatically works for the good of the student body. Even the present clarification and reshaping of the constitution cannot lessen the primary responsibility on the elected membership. Because of the Senate's increasing capability in representing the best interests of the students, the administration and faculty have permitted the students to have an ever increasing part in the actual policy decisions that affect them. This trend could easily be reversed. The practice is too young to be a very firmly established operating procedure. But with a little care in a few years it could be."

WOMEN'S LEAGUE
The United Student Christian Association has had a very active year under the guidance of the Rev. Lloyd Win. Patnum, who came to Kalamazoo last fall from a pastorate in Dayton, Ohio. Throughout the year C.A. has averaged several well-attended meetings per month, with such topics for discussion as the election of the Pope, relating religion to philosophy and to biology, and a reading of "The Terrible Meek," a three-act dramatic play-reading. A regular feature has been the sponsoring of a coffee-hour following each of the Sunday Evening Vespers services. These services have been conducted by the Rev. Lloyd J. Avensill, Dean of Stetson Chapel, who is on leave of absence from the campus in order to do doctorate work at Colgate-Rochester Divinity School, and who each month journeys between Rochester and Kalamazoo to speak and to meet with students.

The highlight of the U.S.C.A. year was the sponsoring of a faculty auction, by which $220 was collected from the selling of faculty goods and services to students. The money will be used to promote the work of the United Student Christian Federation in organizing Christian student groups in African colleges and universities.

On the weekend of March 13, 14, and 15, Kalamazoo College sponsored the thirteenth annual Bach Festival in Stotton Chapel under the direction of Henry Overley, festival founder. This festival is one of seven in the country in which only the music of Bach is performed. This year the program included Cantatas NO. 65 and NO. 21, The Passion According to St. Matthew, and two Bach harpsichord concertos. The maturity of concept and presentation of these works make the Kalamazoo College Bach Festival unique in the community. In allowing many college students and faculty members to participate in the choir and orchestra Mr. Overley has given them a musical experience which will be invaluable to them.

At ceremonies in Stetson Chapel on December 9, President Laurence M. Gould of the United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa installed the Delta Chapter of Michigan in Kalamazoo College. This marked a proud day in college history for the granting of the petition of membership clearly demonstrates the respect given Kalamazoo College by the country’s leading educators.

Frederick Gaiser is installed as the first student member of the Chapter.
In 1948 the student radio station WJMD was established as a campus medium of communication. In the intervening years Station Managers and Staffs have come and gone with little improvement in Station policy or equipment to show for their effort. It seems to many, that John Agria and his Staff have made much progress this year in establishing a uniform programming code as well as remodeling the Station. Their work will certainly mean continuing improvement in the radio station.
"Work on the Index has given many students a chance for self-expression, and even for learning how to spell; for a few now and then it has been an anteroom to an honorable profession; for the student body in general, and for the Faculty, it has served as a medium for the growth and exercise of tolerance and understanding; for all it has had the function of a bull session via the printed word, and bull sessions are of course valuable, even indispensable, on any campus."
"The general character of the college annual is dictated by the student interests that remain the same from generation to generation: pictures of members of classes, with captions in the current student jargon; faculty departmental groups in which the teachers try their best, usually unsuccessfully, to look non-academic; society groups; athletic layouts; college humor; sometimes "poetry"; a dedication to a staff member. Some slight opportunity there is for variations, but in the main the college annual has of course always been the same in Kalamazoo College that it has been anywhere else."

Sponsored by the six societies on campus, Greek Week-End provided winter-weary students with welcome entertainment. A chariot race, toga contest, Greek games, and a semi-formal dance made this annual event one of the most enjoyable of the campus calendar.

Several foreign films were presented during the year.

Professor Rushevics conducts a Russian lab.

Kalamazoo College is fortunate in having in its curriculum courses in French, German, Spanish, and Russian as well as Latin and Greek. With several native instructors of the modern languages on campus, the student learns proper pronunciation and idioms from the beginning of his study. The foreign language clubs provide the opportunities for further experience in conversation and understanding.
Through the year Kalamazoo College's teams sometimes won and sometimes lost, but the overall record was a good one. The teams were worthy of the support of the school and they received it. To an outsider, the Hornet teams' won-lost records may lack interest but to us, they are proud memories.

The senior members of the Hornet football squad left to right: Don Stoffers, John Gorman, Dan Gibson, and Lou Wild.
"To run four miles with the necessary speed takes weeks of hard work... Many people ask why do they run four miles? I would say that they look on it as a challenge. Not to whether they will make the four miles, which is sometimes a question, but to whether they can beat the other guy. This year we are on top and hope to stay there. But we are being challenged by Calvin even more than Albion. Our boys meet this challenge by working hard, night after night, trying to improve their times. This work is directed toward a goal that can only be reached by a determined group effort. This attitude and spirit is a valuable one now and will perhaps be more important in the future."

David Whittingham in the Index

"The real work of a college goes on daily and hourly below the surface of public attention; education, like nature, does its most important work at the roots, in the subsoil of life. ... The first statement in the Ritual of Recognition for New Students voices this fact: Kalamazoo College is a Fellowship in Learning. It is not land and buildings. These are but the shell of a congenial group life that has persisted here for more than a century."
It is hoped that the reader will notice the many quotations from The Kalmaroo College Story in the body of this book. It is a tribute to Dr. Arnold Mulder whose passing this year was a great loss to his friends at Kalamazoo College.

The Editor wishes to express his appreciation to the many persons who helped the yearbook this year and particularly, his staff, without whom no achievement would have been possible. I would also like to thank Mr. Joseph Schiavone, photographer, Mr. Jack Bundy of the S. K. Smith Company, and Mr. Ward Goodrich of Ihling Bros. Press for their assistance which went far beyond a business capacity.

CONGRATULATIONS GRADUATES

Today the goal you aimed for more than a decade ago is at hand. For most of you this is a fitting climax to years of study and hard work—graduation.

Some of you may choose to continue your formal education, others will go into industry or the business and professional world. But wherever you go and whatever you do, the experience you have had, the knowledge and understanding you have acquired, and the principles you have lived by during the past four years, applied to your new endeavor, will make your life richer and fuller.
