Energy has many faces. But none can compare with the face of human energy. It has been the source of our great advances in medicine, agriculture and chemicals. Against all machines and all materials, nothing is so priceless. Or so measureless.

In the past 200 years, the world's resources have been significantly depleted. Yet human energy has hardly been tapped. And it will be this human energy which will bring us into the future through efficient use of what we have. And have yet to discover.

The Upjohn Company is dedicated to the potential of human energy; ever mindful that energy is wasted if it does not benefit all of society.
