

1967
Founders Day

John Alfred Hannah

Mr. President, I have the honor to present as a candidate for an honorary degree, JOHN ALFRED HANNAH, educational statesman, civil rights leader, and "the greatest Spartan of them all."

The dimensions of education, as he has extended them in his more than a quarter century of leadership at Michigan State University, go far beyond the dreams of Justin Morrill, a man he has honored as namesake of his newest, innovating college. The reach of his University around the world is only slightly greater than his personal reach has been. Equally at home in Washington or Michigan, he has served as Chairman of the United States Civil Rights Commission since its creation in 1957, as an Assistant Secretary of Defense, and on Advisory Boards of the State Department. This year as Chairman of the prestigious American Council on Education, he serves as a national spokesman for all of higher education.

We meet and honor him today both for his accomplishments in education and for his decade of civil rights leadership where he has worked to make the American dream a reality for all people. Therefore, on behalf of the Faculty of Kalamazoo College, I recommend that upon him be conferred the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.

John Alfred Hannah

Mr. President, I have the honor to present as a candidate for an honorary degree, JOHN ALFRED HANNAH, educational statesman, civil rights leader, and "the greatest Spartan of them all."

The dimensions of education, as he has extended them in his more than a quarter century of leadership at Michigan State University, go far beyond the dreams of Justin Morrill, a man he has honored as namesake of his newest, innovating college. The reach of his University around the world is only slightly greater than his personal reach has been. Equally at home in Washington or Michigan, he has served as Chairman of the United States Civil Rights Commission since its creation in 1957, as an Assistant Secretary of Defense, and on Advisory Boards of the State Department. This year as Chairman of the prestigious American Council on Education, he serves as a national spokesman for all of higher education.

We meet and honor him today both for his accomplishments in education and for his decade of civil rights leadership where he has worked to make the American dream a reality for all people. Therefore, on behalf of the Faculty of Kalamazoo College, I recommend that upon him be conferred the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws.