DEAR CLASS of 2013,

In 2009—the same year most of us began our time at K—the College’s offices of Alumni Relations and College Communication launched OrangeZest. The project replaced the discontinued college yearbook, The Boiling Pot. Unlike a traditional yearbook, OrangeZest commemorates the senior graduating class and its members’ entire four years at the College.

Built as a scrapbook, this book was a labor of many hands. Inside these pages are hundreds of photos submitted by over eighty classmates and student staff photographers.

We have seen remarkable transformations over the last four years. Our classmates founded new student groups, such as M.E.Ch.A. and S3A, in response to critical needs in the social and academic fabric of our campus. We experienced the complete renovation of the outdoor Athletic Field Complex, and the establishment of the Arcus Center for Social Justice Leadership, and much more. And for every institutional change, there were also less visible changes in our own abilities, our relationships, our selves.

OrangeZest, like our time at K, was a process. I hope these images speak to the process of your own time at K, and all those moments of clarity, confusion, challenge, and celebration along the way.

On behalf of and to all the folks who made this publication possible, thank you! Best of luck to the class of 2013.
