Foreign students on the K College campus.
The Cover Picture

Pictured on the steps of Harmon Hall are student representatives from six countries. This picture of international friendship in action was taken during the sessions of the International Service Seminar sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee. House in Harmon Hall, 52 students from 24 countries spent five weeks on the K College campus, living and working as a group with one common purpose, the serious study of foundations for world peace.

Recreation and fellowship were important parts of the program, together with classes, conferences, committee meetings, and periods for devotional meditation — each in his own way. Dr. Allan B. Cole, member of the department of Far Eastern Affairs of the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, was in charge of the seminar.

Students pictured, beginning with the young lady seated, center, and going clockwise, are from: U. S., Japan, Chile, Pakistan, Philippine Islands, and Mexico.

In the next issue of the ALUMNUS we hope to introduce the sizeable group of foreign students who are enrolling at Kalamazoo College with the new class which was arriving on campus as we go to press. At least 12 foreign countries will be represented by these students who will give the campus a truly international flavor.

“One Thing Leads To Another” Department

By the Editor

If your school age children have told you, “We read about Kalamazoo College today,” here is how it came about:

At the National Junior and Boys Tennis Championships held at Stowe Stadium this summer, a number of fathers and mothers of contestants were present, as in previous years. One of the fathers was Mr. Clay Coss, of Washington, D. C., father of Tim, a high ranking contestant for the Junior title. During the week Mr. Coss was on the Kalamazoo College campus he had opportunity to become acquainted with the college, with Stowe Tennis Stadium, and with Dr. Allen B. Stowe, director of the national tennis championship tournament.

One thing led to another, because Mr. Coss is managing editor of Civic Education Service, Inc., publishers of The American Observer, the Weekly News Review, the Junior Review, Young Citizen, and the Civic Leader. These publications will be recognized as being the news magazines used by school children of all ages throughout the nation. Mr. Coss is impressed by the potential benefits of a good tennis program for young people everywhere. He asked for information and background on the Kalamazoo College program, one of the best in the nation, and he has indicated that he wants to run a number of articles on tennis and other “active participation” sports during the year, with a description and report of what Kalamazoo College does. One of these articles appeared in the Sept. 24 issue of the Weekly News Review.

While Dr. Stowe was in New York to attend the meetings of the American Chemical Society, he called upon Mr. Coss in Washington, in response to invitation, and spent a day with him. This provided opportunity also to visit with alumni. Dr. Stowe reports that Dr. '42 and Mrs. Fred Pinkham (Helen Kostia '43) made up a party on the spur of the moment, to which guests included: Dr. '10 and Mrs. Maynard Owen Williams, Mr. '48 and Mrs. Owen Williams, Dr. Walter Good '37, Mr. '19 and Mrs. Northrup Read, and Mr. '43 and Mrs. Quentin Verdier, and children of most of the families.

He had opportunity to visit also with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Simrell (Harriet Hosking '29), and Mr. '39 and Mrs. John L. Grabber (Esther Tyler '32), the Robert Rowlands '41 and the Donald Larsen's '30, Mr. '45 and Mrs. John Pendergast (Janet Hall '45), and Louis B. Nichol ex '32.

Speaking of magazines — The International Tennis News devoted a major share of one issue to the championship tournament. Coverage included a full front page story with pictures in color, a full page of pictures in the magazine, and three or four other articles about the tennis program at Kalamazoo College, including a picture and story about the K College tennis team. This developed from the fact that the publisher of the magazine, state Senator Walter B. Fraser, was at the tournament for a week to

Research Project is Described

The research project carried on at Kalamazoo College by the National Council for Stream Improvement is described in the recent report of the Committee on Coordination of Research for the American Paper and Pulp Association.

The project on the deinking of paper mill waste has been going on for several years. At present a full scale deinking waste treatment plant by the Kalamazoo River Improvement Company has been erected at Plainwell in accordance with research findings of the laboratory. This plant includes biological aeration preceded and followed by sedimentation, the treatment found to be successful in the laboratory and pilot plant stages of the project.

Experimentation with various types of air diffusers, varied aeration periods and conditions, vacuum filtration of sludge and sludge utilization and disposal will be continued.

Millard Bachelder '50 is in charge of operation of the Plainwell plant. Design and construction of the plant was under the direction of A. J. Palladino, who maintains an office in R. E. Olds Science Hall.

Member of the American Alumni Council

Entered as second class matter January 18, 1900 at the Post Office at Kalamazoo Michigan, under the act of March 3, 1879. Published bi-monthly, six times yearly in October, December, February, April, June, and August. Subscription rate: One dollar per year.
Here's The Situation . . . .

The Alumnus needs HELP from its readers!

Our problem is: How can we put our Alumnus on a self-supporting basis? It has been operating “in the red” actually. Your alumni officers and the editors have been considering “ways and means” to put the alumni program on a sound financial basis in the face of a necessary curtailment of operational budget.

Here’s the story . . .

We have over 3500 alumni on our mailing list. The Alumnus alone has an annual expense of nearly $3,000. And there are, of course, other regular expenses in carrying on the activities of the Alumni Association.

Did you know we now have twenty-six active alumni clubs throughout the country? As you know, in recent years there has been no special appeal made for Alumnus subscriptions or for alumni dues. We do need your support now.

Due to postal regulations pertaining to second class matter, the copy on the enclosed envelope can apply to subscriptions only. But we are hopefully wishing you might find a bit extra to slip into the envelope as your alumni dues in addition to the $1.00 subscription, so we really can “operate.” If you can, please fill out the coupon below and mail it in along with your subscription.

We want to have an interesting alumni program; we want to maintain the present standards of the Alumnus. We hope you will help us do so.

PRESIDENT'S LETTER

To the alumni of Kalamazoo College:

Much has happened on campus during the summer months. The summer began and ended with international conferences, the first sponsored by the World Student Christian Federation with leadership from Europe and Asia, and the last sponsored by the American Friends Service Committee with students from twenty or more countries, living on the campus for five weeks to consider international problems under skilled leadership. The varied nature of the summer program can be seen at a glance when we list some of the other groups using the campus—the Piano Workshop under the guidance of Miss Frances Clark of our music faculty, the National Junior and Boys' Tennis Championships under the direction of Dr. Allen B. Stowe, the Women's House Parties of the Baptist Church, the World Wide Guild girls of the Baptist Church, the Junior Chamber of Commerce, a doctor's conference, and other equally varied programs. It is no exaggeration to say that some thousands of people became acquainted with Kalamazoo College through this diverse program.

Simultaneously, major maintenance work was going on with the renovation and redecoration of Welles Hall and Mary Trowbridge House, the two most important improvements. A very efficient voluntary committee under the direction of Mrs. Bert Hodgman spent literally hundreds of hours planning for Trowbridge—the lounges, the recreation room, the study hall, the halls, and the small kitchens. The result is a greatly improved residence for women.

The mail campaign of the Development Program went forward under the direction of Mr. Rickard with encouraging results. Now we have just concluded a most stimulating Faculty Conference at Pretty Lake and are on the eve of New Student Days. There is a promising new class drawn from twelve foreign countries and more than twenty states, and while enrollment will be down, we will have less shrinkage than originally anticipated. We should begin the year with 440 to 450 students.

In many ways, this year promises to be a year of real growth in the life of our fellowship in learning, and we welcome you back on October 27 to share with us in the exciting program just announced for Homecoming. May we count on seeing you then?

Enrollment Figures Are Announced

The October Alumnus goes to press as the final figures for the 1951-52 enrollment are being determined. There are over 450—455 to be exact—students now on campus, and from last minute telephone calls and special delivery messages, not to mention the upper-class late-comers, indications are that the total enrollment for the first semester will not be complete for another week or two, it is reported by Mrs. John W. Hornbeck, registrar. The new students number 160, of which 25 are transferring from other colleges. There are eleven new foreign born students coming from Japan, China, Iran, Sweden, Germany, Austria, Netherlands, Greece, Africa, Burma and Latvia. Kalamazoo College has a total of 19 foreign students on the campus.

This year, the students have come from Maine to the Philippines and from New York to Florida. For the first time in several years the proportion of men and women is equal in the Freshman class—66 men, 66 women. In the total enrollment so far, there are 281 men to 174 women.

Much could be said about the special abilities and the academic records of these new students. Some have made superior records in high school. All of them have been recommended for their particular interests, activities or achievements, which indicate they will profit by continuing their education on the college level. It is a fine group of which the alumni can be proud.

Area Campaigns Underway for the Development Program

Announcements made at the opening of the fall term included the statement that the Kalamazoo College Development Program campaign had reached a total of $575,488.70. Of this amount, $503,621.70 came from the Kalamazoo area, it is reported by Mr. Samuel H. Rickard, vice-president of Kalamazoo College, $19,107.00 came from the Chicago and South Bend areas, $7,680.00 came from the mail campaign, and $45,080.00 came from other sources.

Campaigns for the Development Program in other districts will be conducted during the fall and winter, it is announced by Mr. Rickard. The college has been in contact with alumni groups in such areas as Battle Creek, Benton Harbor and St. Joseph, Grand Rapids, Jackson, Lansing, Flint, Detroit, Ann Arbor, Washington, D. C., New York City, Boston, and Rochester, N. Y.

The mail campaign has been going on among alumni who do not reside in any of these areas of alumni concentration. "The response to the mail campaign has been very encouraging," states Mr. Rickard. "It is urgent and essential that you support this campaign if Kalamazoo College is to continue its effectiveness." Mr. Rickard points out: "We are not increasing the size of the College, but we are planning to keep our College modern in order to do the best work."

The immediate objective is to raise $750,000. The Kalamazoo area had a quota of $500,000 of this amount. The spring campaign, previously reported, resulted in the quota being oversubscribed.

Ninth National Tennis Championships Held

For the ninth consecutive year, Kalamazoo College was host to the Junior and Boys Tennis Championships of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, July 30 to Aug. 5. Dr. Allen B. Stowe, director, had entries from coast to coast and from Mexico. Parents came with their sons in many instances, and with their sons spent a week on the campus of Kalamazoo College as the youthful tennis stars sought top national honors for their age groups. A total of 196 entries, including four from Mexico, marked the tournament as being one of the biggest in the 36 years' history of the event.

Again, the California delegation was compelled to bow out in the junior division when Bob Perry, No. 1 seeded player from Los Angeles, dislocated his knee on match point in the semifinals against Al Kuhn of Evanston, Ill. After a fifteen minute delay, Perry announced he was ready to resume play. With an elastic bandage over his knee-cap, he stood at the baseline ready to play, but Kuhn demonstrated what sportsmanship is by playing an intentional double-fault to terminate the match without Perry's needing to move or swing a racket. Final score was 6-0, 6-1, Perry.

The next day Perry was forced to default to Ted Rogers of Chevy Chase, Md., because he had entered Bronson Hospital for attention to his knee. Thus Rogers became national champion then and there in spite of his announced willingness to play the match later. Doctors said Perry would be unable to play tennis for some months.

Bill Quillian, Seattle, and Don Flye, Tacoma, Washington, won the junior doubles title. Gerald Moss, Miami Beach, Florida, defeated the favored Jon Douglas of California for the boys' singles championship. The boys' doubles championship was taken by Myron Franks, Los Angeles, and Albert Hernandez, La Jolla, California.

Dr. Stowe conducted all phases of the tournament in his usual smooth and efficient manner. Guests at the tournament included many prominent tennis officials, players, and coaches.

Horns Open Football Season-
Prepare for Hillsdale, Oct. 27

By John Stommen

The 30 to 7 score run up against K-College by Wheaton, Illinois, College in the opening game on September 22, doesn't tell the whole story of the game. Granted that the visitors doubled both the first down and total offense figures against the Hornets, it was still a good game.

Had the Orange and Black been able to capitalize on drives to the enemy's eight and four yard lines during the second half, two more touchdowns could have been chalked up for Kazoo. Also, Wheaton added its last touchdown with only forty-five seconds remaining in the game.

K Club Elects

Allen S. Reyburn '43 was elected president of the alumni "K" Club at the annual Football Get-together Dinner in Welles Hall, Sept. 6. Charlie Stanski '50 was elected vice-president, and Ernest Casler '25 was re-elected secretary-treasurer Curtis W. "Opie" Davis '28, retiring president, was in charge of the meeting.

"Knothole Club"

in Operation Again

Once again Kalamazoo College is sponsoring a Knothole Club for boys and girls in the Kalamazoo area. Purpose of the Club is to provide free admission to football games to organized groups of young people under adult supervision. Now in its fourth year, the club has proved to be very popular with boys and girls, and with leaders of young people's groups. Admission to the home football games on the Hornet schedule is by groups under adult supervision only.

For a young, green team with five freshmen in the starting lineup, Coach (Dob) Grow's charges did very well. The Hornets took the opening kickoff and marched sixty yards in ten plays to score. Phil Dillman, all-MIAA quarterback, scampered over from the one yard line. Monte Nye converted and Kazoo was off to a surprising start against the highly favored Crusaders.

It wasn't until the second quarter that Wheaton got the score back and even at halftime the Crusaders held only a slim 12 to 7 lead. Superior numbers, the winners boasted twenty-two lettermen on their squad, to Kalamazoo's nine, finally wore down the Hornets in the second half and Wheaton rushed across three more scores.

Roger Winter, 155 pound substitute halfback, sparked the K-College attack, while Dillman and and freshman fullback, Al Patzer, also performed well.

Attention now centers on games leading to the Homecoming game with Hillsdale, October 27. Anything can happen by that time, but all indications are that a good game is in prospect. It was at Hillsdale's Homecoming last year that the Hornets rose to heights of new glory on the gridiron to defeat the heavily favored Hillsdale team, 28 to 27 after being behind 21 to 0 in the opening minutes of the third quarter.

The story of the birth of a book is often as interesting as the book itself. A case in point is that of the familiar children's classic, Alice in Wonderland.

All my life I had been referring glibly to Lewis Carroll's well known fantasy, but I had never read it. Such references are almost inevitable, and the general character of the book is so well known that referring to it without having read it is perfectly legitimate.

During an idle hour I took time to read what I was convinced I should have read in childhood, only to find to my amazement that I was lucky not to have read it then. For Alice in Wonderland is no more a children's book than is Gulliver's Travels, and perhaps no book was ever written that belongs less to the land of childhood than Swift's bitter classic.

Although it was published in 1861, Alice in Wonderland contains in story form many of the fundamental concepts that later made the name of Sigmund Freud famous. Freud was only five years old at the time, and Lewis Carroll had of course never heard of psychoanalysis, but he knew so much about the workings of the human mind that even professional psychologists should read this "children's classic" with respect for its deep wisdom.

But like Swift, Lewis Carroll has been cast in the popular imagination for a clown. That's because he elected, like Aesop and the Brothers Grimm and Hans Christian Anderson, to clothe his wisdom in stories instead of wrapping $64 technical terms around it. Wordsworth said that the child is the true philosopher, and the Bible speaks of wisdom that is hidden to the wise and prudent but is revealed unto babes and sucklings. That's the type of wisdom found in Alice in Wonderland.

But the story of its birth is even more surprising than the book itself. Perhaps it is not well known and may bear repeating.

Lewis Carroll was not a literary clown nor a professional humorist. His real name was Charles Lutwidge Dodgson, and he was, of all things, a professor of mathematics at Oxford most of his life. Also, he was ordained a deacon in the Anglican church, in the very year Alice in Wonderland was published, but he never proceeded to priest's orders. He withheld publication of his book for some time because he was afraid it would be thought frivolous by the solemn masters of university and church, who controlled his livelihood.

The charming story is told of the book's appeal to the still youthful Queen Victoria, who was just then bringing up a houseful of children. She wrote the author a note of commendation and asked him to send her his next book. He followed her instructions literally, but doubtless in a mood of Puckish amusement. The next book happened to be one of his publications in mathematics; it was called An Elementary Treatise on Determinants. It would be interesting to know what Victoria — who was not too bright in an intellectual sense — thought of the new book by the author of Alice in Wonderland.

There are more books of that type in the bibliography of Lewis Carroll than of the Alice in Wonderland variety. That is what makes Alice doubly remarkable, the fact that it came from such a source.

The author's list of publications is sprinkled with such titles as Syllabus of Plane Algebraical Geometry, Symbolic Logic, Formulæ of Plane Trigonometry, and others of that kind.

And only a trained logician and mathematician can comprehend some of the things set forth in the Alice fantasy. But Alice in Wonderland is not a Tarzan sort of book or one of today's "funnies." It is basically a book for grownups who have learned to understand that there are more things in heaven and earth than are dreamed of in the philosophies of the learned.

VICTORY CELEBRATION

The picture above was taken in way of celebration shortly after the open­
pennant, had succeeded in capturing the flag of the freshman class, shown in the foreground, in the then traditional battle between the men of the two classes as part of the “Fun Week” coming after the opening days of school.

The flag of the class of ‘08 had been raised on the flag pole atop Williams Hall in spite of “difficulties.” The sophomore men then succeeded in taking it down in the record time of 30 minutes in spite of “determined opposition.”
Hence the victory picture.

Pictured from left to right, top row: Unidentified, Faith Dodge, Mildred Quick-Olin, Heward Dunn ‘08, Vera Muffley-Walkers*, Rena Chapple-Trull, and Carey R. Johnson*. Second Row: John Walker, Anna Crosby-Stetson, Mary Appleford ‘08, H. G. Kerchner ‘08*, Bessie Rumsey*, Leonard Appleford, Gertrude Taylor-Burns, Charles Probert, Esther Olson-Gotans, unidentified, Charles Williams, and Jabez W. Burns. Third Row: Maurice Post, Alice Vincent-Strong, Otto Stratemeyer, and Winfred Winnett. Fourth Row: Clara Rookus ‘08, John Cooper, Leena Dickson-Rupp, Paul Stetson, May Warren­ Lockhart, William Puffer, and Pearl Davidson-Shinar. Directly behind the “08” of the captured flag: Url Fox and Eugenia Siddall.

Freshmen Week Program Opens New Year

Freshman Days were extended to one week on the Kalamazoo College campus this year. Under the direction of the Deans, Dr. Raymond L. Hightower and Mrs. Maynard Cassidy, a group of selected student counselors assisted the new students in their orientation to the campus and to the idea of being in college. Faculty advisors made their initial contacts with their advisees and took an active part in welcoming the students, as well as advising them in regard to the academic work they were about to undertake.

The week was completely occupied with scheduled events, including contests, conferences, dinners, and recreation periods. A tea for new students and parents, Sept. 16, opened the program. A reception at the home of President and Mrs. Everton, Sept. 23, concluded an eventful week for the young people who now were ready for the opening classes on Sept. 25. Monday, Sept. 24, was devoted to the registration of upperclassmen.

watch his son, John, one of the contesttants.

Two other magazines had representatives on campus during the tournament. LIFE had a photographer and reporter here all week, but unfortunately the Kalamazoo tennis story was crowded out of the magazine by other developments. By coincidence only, GOOD HOUSEKEEPing was represented by Mr. and Mrs. James Hampton. Mr. Hampton is the author of the annual study of representative small colleges which now has become an outstanding feature of the magazine. He expressed pleasure at what he saw on the campus, and was particularly pleased with the interior of Stetson Chapel. He previously had received much background information about the college and its program. At his request, pictures of the interior of the chapel have been forwarded for consideration of the editors of GOOD HOUSEKEEPING with thought in mind of the possibility of using a picture in the magazine.

Still speaking of magazines, THE MICHI GA N BAPTIST does a good job of carrying news and articles and pictures of Kalamazoo College activities on a year-round basis. Other Baptist publications giving space to Kalamazoo College include "YOU NG PEOPLE," and "THE HIGH CALL," both published from Philadelphia.
"THE HIGH CALL" carried a full page story in the Fall Number about the Christmas parties held at K College last winter. This report of the parties for "kids" and one for elderly men and women was illustrated with three pictures taken at the parties, and was printed at this time with the apparent idea of helping others get ideas for planning Christmas parties of their own.

Kalamazoo College was in COL-LIERS, Sept. 1 issue, with a picture and item about Miss Anta Cerins, a La vian DP who had graduated from Kalamazoo College, Cum Laude, this past June.

Last but not least, AMERICAN LAWN TENNIS gave a two-page spread to the tennis championships, with pictures. The pictures included the one of Lloyd "Dob" Grow, head football coach at K College, examining the injured knee of Bob Perry, the No. 1 contestant for the chamionship who had to default in the final match because of his dramatic misfortune (see the sports page) on the final point of the semi-finals.

OUR HOMECOMING SCHEDULE is of extra-special design this year, and the planning represents the combined efforts of alumni, students, and faculty.

The morning's program has been worked around a typical college day, and the opportunity is at hand for alumni to return on October 27 to really become acquainted with 1951 "K".

Registration will begin at 9:30 a.m., so plan to have your morning's cup of coffee in Hoben Lounge. At 11:00 a.m., chapel bells will beckon on the crest of our campus hill. An interesting service is being planned with student participation. Anytime between 8:00 a.m. and 11:00 a.m., the welcome mat will be out to attend any of the classes you wish. A complete schedule will be made available to you. (You see, the Alumnus is going to press during student registration days!) Here are a few to consider: International Affairs, American Literature, Fields of Social Work, Introduction of Visual Art, Elizabethan Drama, American National Government, Cultural Anthropology, Modern European History, Clinical Psychology, and foreign languages.

After chapel, the campus will be yours for inspection and fun. Faculty and students will be on hand at any of the campus buildings of your choice. (Note: Don't overlook the newly decorated lounges at Mary Trowbridge House!) The students promise clever displays again this year, too.

At 12:15 p.m., the facilities of Welles Dining Hall will be at your disposal. Luncheons for the women in Welles Hall Lounge and for men in the main dining room have been planned by our new dining hall staff, and we venture they will meet with absolute approval.

The game with Hillsdale begins at 2:00 p.m., and afterward, we hope to see you in Hoben Lounge for a get-together before the banquet. Our banquet headliner will be Dan Wood '40, former "K" star athlete, now minister of the First Baptist Church, Beaver Dam, Wisconsin. He is Director of Religion and assistant in coaching at Wayland Academy.

For the evening's entertainment, the Student Senate has planned a dance in Tredway, and they extend a cordial welcome to all alumni.
