On Campus & Off

Offered on campus for the first time this summer will be a program of African studies, open to undergraduates of any GLCA institution. Courses to be offered include Politics of Sub-Sahara Africa, African History, Economics of Africa, the Dynamics of Intercultural Relations, Swahili, and hopefully Krio, one of the languages of Sierra Leone. Participating students will be housed in a separate living center with students who have returned from study in Africa and African students currently in the United States, including the informants in the African language courses.

The Kalamazoo College Black Student Organization will be responsible for an extensive co-curricular program, arranging for lectures, art exhibits, and a free university course in African literature.

In the fall and winter terms, GLCA students may apply to join the regular Kalamazoo College Foreign Study Program for university study in Sierra Leone (Fourah Bay and Njala), Ghana (Legon), or Kenya (Nairobi).

Kalamazoo College will participate for the second consecutive year in the Independent Colleges Opportunity Program for Michigan Youth during the summer. ICOP, which aims to identify youth of exceptional financial need who want a college education and then provides the encouragement for that education through a summer orientation program, focuses on promising individuals whose past academic records may not be outstanding. Last year 96 students participated on six college campuses in Michigan; five of these students are currently enrolled at Kalamazoo College.

The program, financially underwritten by the W. K. Kellogg Foundation of Battle Creek, is co-ordinated on campus by Dr. W. Haydn Ambrose, assistant to the president, and will again have Walden Baskerville, guidance counselor at Kalamazoo Central high school, serving as program director.

Miss Genna Rae McNeil, senior Philosophy major from Dallas, Texas, is one of 45 college seniors and recent graduates to receive a Ford Foundation Doctoral Fellowship for Black Students. Chosen from among 600 applicants, Miss McNeil will seek a doctorate in history from the University of Chicago. She also plans to get a degree in library science. Listed in "Who's Who Among American College Students" for 1969, Miss McNeil was 1968 Homecoming Queen, is a member of the College Choir, the planning committee for the GLCA African Institute to be held on campus this summer, and Alpha Lambda Delta honorary society.

Roger E. Brinner, senior economics major from St. Louis, has been designated by the Woodrow Wilson Foundation as among the best future college teachers on the continent. He plans to work toward a Ph.D. degree in economics, specializing in public finance and monetary theory, after which he plans to teach on the college level. A member of Phi Beta Kappa, Brinner holds a Chrysler Fund International Scholarship. As a part of the Chrysler program, he worked in the London offices of Chrysler International during the fall and winter quarters of his junior year. His award brings to 32 the number of Kalamazoo College students recognized by the Foundation since the inception of the Woodrow Wilson Fellowships.

Currently underway in Michigan is a drive to raise a minimum of $100,000 to endow an American Baptist Religious Fund to bring to the College the nation's leading ministers and theologians for speaking engagements, for in-residence counseling and discussions during the year, for forums and seminars, to sponsor religious art exhibits and dramas. An anonymous Baptist donor has pledged $50,000 toward the minimum objective if the Committee on Church Relations has secured a like amount in cash or pledges by July 15, 1969.

The former production plant of Westab, Inc., located on 16.7 acres on Kalamazoo's northside, was presented to Kalamazoo College early this year by E. F. Stovall, president of the company, a division of the Mead Corporation. Other recent gifts announced by Kalamazoo College's President Weimer K. Hicks include $1,000 from the 3M Company's nationwide aid to education program, and a $750 unrestricted grant from Aid Association for Lutherans, a fraternal life insurance company. The latter grant is based on the number of AAL scholarship winners attending the College; these winners include the Misses Lois M. Meyer of Big Rapids, Marilyn J. Spencer of Fraser, and Marlene Rodenbeck of Ft. Wayne, Indiana.

Visiting lecturers from Germany and Brazil have joined the staff at the College for the spring quarter. Lecturing in the German and English departments is Dr. Erwin Wolff, professor of English at the University of Erlangen in Nurnberg, Germany; teaching advanced Spanish and linguistics is Dr. John W. Martin of the graduate school of Pontificia Universidade Catolica de Sao Paulo. Named interim director of the College's News Bureau is senior Phillip Carra of Kalamazoo. An English major, he spent his career-service quarter working at the "Kalamazoo Gazette."

Four alumni meetings have been held thus far with Kalamazoo College students participating in informal dialogue with the alumni present. Alumni enthusiasm has marked this a successful venture. Hosting the Lansing meeting on April 23 was Eleanor Currey Rich '19, assisted by Margret Stewart '21 and Mrs. Marion Stutes. On April 28, the Larry Kurths '40 (Alice Penn '41) and the Ed Driers '41 (June VanderVeen '41) entertained a group at the Kurths' home in Benton Harbor. The Dave Koezes '58 (Carol Baker '60) opened their home to a Grand Rapids meeting on May 1, and on May 2, John Laansma '50 arranged a Flint meeting at the Woodside Church. Eighty-two Detroit alumni and friends dined at the Park Shelton Hotel on April 26 and heard Robert Dewey '47, Dean of Stetson Chapel. Harriette Barton Connolly '37, Club secretary, was dinner chairman, and Don Steffen '59, president, presided during the program. Officers elected this spring include, for the Southwestern Michigan Club, Ted Troff '48, president, and Elizabeth Walker Laetz '40, secretary; for the Detroit Club, Charles Morse '38, president, and Nancy Vots Smith '60, secretary.

Winifred Dewing Hall was dedicated on April 25. The new classroom building, located to the west of Mandelle Hall, is named for Winifred Dewing Wallace, a member of the locally prominent Dewing family and benefactress of the College who died in 1954. The building houses 10 classrooms, language laboratory facilities, a computer center, an audio-visual department, and many of the faculty offices. It is air-conditioned and carpeted throughout.

President Weimer K. Hicks speaks during dedication ceremonies for the $1.2 million classroom building, Dewing Hall. Taking part in the dedication were Robert D. Dewey, Dean of Stetson Chapel; Lynne Croxford, senior; Mrs. Paul H. Todd, Sr., speaking for the Dewing family; Dr. Laurence Barrett, speaking for the faculty; Trustee Dwight Stocker; Richard Wiggins for Daverman Associates; and Cameron Davis for Miller-Davis Company.

Mrs. William F. Low '26 of Williamsburg, Va., (left) talks with Mrs. Richard Walker, president of the Women's Council, and the three senior women selected as "outstanding" by their classmates. They are Lynne Croxford of Scotia, N.Y., Genna McNeil of Dallas, Tex., and Norma Bailey of Traverse City. Mrs. Low, as an outstanding alumna, and the three seniors were honored at the annual Achievement Day on April 26. Mrs. Low has been supervisor of hostess training at Colonial Williamsburg since 1952. The Women's Council committee included Mrs. Robert Davis and Mrs. Earl L. Burbidge, co-chairman; Mrs. William J. Lawrence, Jr., and Mrs. Richard G. Hudson.

Sports

By Dick Kishpaugh

Record-breaking performances were commonplace in the 1969 Kalamazoo College winter sports season. Existing records were broken in several categories in basketball and wrestling, and the swimming team shared in the records as marks were set for the new Natatorium and for the first swimming team in modern Hornet history.

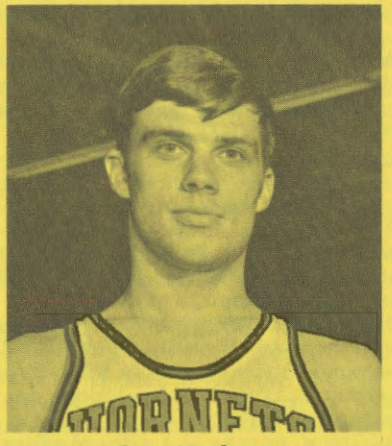
In basketball, senior Gene Nusbaum ended his four-year career with a total of 1,261 points to become the all-time leader for the Hornets in scoring totals. The previous record of 1,252 was held by Gary Morrison, who graduated from Kalamazoo in 1957, and who is now basketball coach at Olivet College.

Nusbaum also received the top honor in the MIAA, being named as the league's Most Valuable Player for the 1968-69 season. Gene, a native of Delton, thus became the first Hornet cager to win the most coveted MIAA award since Manny Glasser was given the award in 1953. Glasser, Nusbaum, and two-time winner Frank Walters (1949 and 1950) are the only Kalamazoo players to win the MIAA MVP award since it was inaugurated in 1947.

The basketball team set one other record in a 104-102 overtime victory over Aquinas College, the 206 points marking the highest two-team total ever scored at Tredway Gymnasium.

Six records were set in wrestling. A 38-5 win over Concordia marked the highest dual meet score in Hornet history, and an 18-second pin by Frank Vaskelis set a new speed record in this area. Freshman Steve Myers set a new single-season victory record with 18 triumphs, and senior Steve Tharp set three records.

Tharp posted new records for career victories (45 in four seasons), for career pins (22) and for pins in one season (13). Tharp was an easy choice as the team's Most Valuable Wrestler.



Gene Nusbaum

Henry Harper, currently basketball and track coach at Franklin Junior High School in Rock Island, Illinois, will join the Hornets' staff in the fall of 1969 as head track coach and football and basketball aide. Mr. Harper is a graduate and letterman from Alcorn A&M College in Lorman, Mississippi, and has done graduate work at the University of South Carolina and Western Michigan University.

Since this was the first year for the new Natatorium, and the first year of organized swimming, all of the best marks for the season were records for the College and for the Natatorium. Roland Grybauskas was named as the Most Valuable Swimmer for 1969.

Nusbaum and Craig Vossekuil were co-captains in basketball, while Tharp was captain in wrestling, and Paul Pugsley captained the swimming team.
