Message to Note

There are two matters for your attention!
(1) Vote on the Alumni Constitution
Ballot (inside)

(2) Come to Homecoming
The final draft of our Alumni Constitution appears in this issue. We hope you will register your endorsement! Among the major changes are the alumni-trustee election, and the additions to the Alumni Board of a representative of the senior class, one from the Women’s Council, and one from the Parents’ Council. We are delighted to be able to select candidates for alumni-trustee approval for six-year periods. Formerly, we submitted annually a candidate for one three-year term, and an alumni-trustee could not succeed himself in this position. The new arrangement allows an alumni-trustee to serve two three-year terms (the Board will continue to approve candidates, per their Charter, on a three-year basis) and, thereby, become more involved in the Board’s functions. Further, once this new arrangement is fully established, the Alumni Association will have six alumni-trustees serving simultaneously, rather than the former three. It is hoped to place a recent alumnus on the Board at the next election. The Alumni Council is grateful to Dr. Richard U. Light, chairman of the Board of Trustees, for his time and interest in setting forth this new program.

October 18 is the date to mark on your calendars for Homecoming. This year, we shall be celebrating the 75th season of football at “K” and the centennial of football in the country. We begin the celebration with a special get-together for former football players and wives on Friday evening, and there will be an anniversary luncheon on Saturday for everyone back for Homecoming. We shall repeat the successful alumni open house at the Kalamazoo Country Club after the game, followed by several reunion dinners. It should be a great weekend — so do plan to come!

Alumni President

On Campus & Off

Senora Maria Luz Medina, director of Kalamazoo College’s Foreign Study Program in Madrid, Spain, passed away July 14. She had been visiting lecturer in Kalamazoo on two occasions. Miss Barbara Boyle will join the faculty as director of the College’s Madrid program and member of the Spanish department. A native of Kansas City, Mo., she is currently working toward a Ph.D. at Tulane. She taught and studied in Madrid during the past two years.

Alan Dee of Dearborn and Stephen Landstreet of Fairfax, Va., were among 12 students from Great Lakes Colleges Association participating in a summer seminar in Yugoslavian studies at the University of Novi Sad, Yugoslavia.

The Homer J. Armstrong Endowment in Religion has been established at Kalamazoo College to further bringing religious voices to campus. The endowment is named for longtime “K” trustee Dr. Homer J. Armstrong, a Baptist minister since 1926. He is presently pastor of the First Baptist Church of Birmingham. The endowment was founded through a $50,000 pledge by an anonymous donor. A matching amount was raised over a three-month period through campaigns among Michigan Baptist churches.

Appearing in the spring issue of New Directions in Teaching is an article by Dr. Harold J. Harris, of the English department, entitled “Some Tenets for Academic Conservatives.” The publication is a Bowling Green State University project. Dr. Harris, who has been on a one-year sabbatical, returns to the campus this fall.

A contingent of 28 Latin Americans attended four weeks of intensive cultural and language orientation at Kalamazoo College during August. The group, comprised of doctors, dentists, agriculturists and one nurse, was sponsored by Battle Creek’s Kellogg Foundation. The participants were from Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Guatemala and Peru. This was the seventh summer that the College has participated in the program. Coordinator for the program was Dr. David Collins.

The College Foreign Study Department hosted an orientation program in August for parents of students who will spend fall and winter quarters in Europe. Dr. Richard Stavig, director of the program, was featured speaker.

Dr. Michael L. Evans, assistant professor of biology, was one of 24 Americans invited to participate in the 1969 United States-Japan seminar on “Action of Plant Growth Regulators” held in August at Indianhead Mountain Lodge in upper Michigan.

The Honorable Davidson Nicol, the Sierra Leonean ambassador to the United Nations, addressed a session of the Great Lakes Colleges Association African Studies program, hosted by the College in August. Nicol was awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Science by the College in 1964 in recognition of his efforts as a research scientist, author and educator.

This summer, the Kalamazoo College concert series, sponsored by the music department, featured five performances. Concerts were given by Thursday Morning Musicals, a Kalamazoo women’s music club; The Collegium Musicum, and pianists Thomas Chambers and Lauren Orr. Dr. Lawrence Smith arranged the series.

Four works by Dr. Lawrence R. Smith, associate professor of music, have been published by Composers’ Auto- graph Publications of Los Angeles. The works are “Sonnets for Strings,” “Divertimento for Chamber Orchestra,” “Exchanges for Solo String Bass and Three Tape Recorders,” and “Two Madrigals and a Jig for Woodwind Quintet.” The music is published under the professional name of Lawrence Rackley.

Dr. David S. Scarrow of the philosophy department and Mrs. Nelda K. Baich, theatre arts and speech, have been promoted to the rank of full professor. Assuming the rank of associate professor are George H. Acker, physical education, and Dr. David A. Collins, chairman of the romance languages and literature department. Those receiving tenure include Dr. David A. Evans, biology, Dr. T. Jefferson Smith, mathematics, and Dr. Howard H. Roerecke, English.

In a recently-published report on voluntary support of education covering the year, 1967-68, Kalamazoo College ranks third in the nation for colleges of its size in the total amount contributed by alumni through all channels (annual fund, endowment giving, bequests, memorials, etc.). Kalamazoo College alumni, during 1967-68, gave $735,850. This amount was exceeded only by Swarthmore College and Pomona College. The survey was sponsored by the American Alumni Council, the Council for Financial Aid to Education, and the National Association of Independent Schools.
Kathy Dombos and Patti Miller, Kalamazoo College freshmen and members of the women's varsity tennis team, played in the doubles tournament of the 89th National Grass Court Championships in August. They won over the veteran team of Ann Rowbotham and Joan Carnder, 6-2, 6-1, and then lost to the former Wimbledon champions, Virginia Wade of England and Margaret Smith Court of Australia, 6-2, 6-0.

William H. Jensen, Kalamazoo College computer center director and assistant professor of mathematics, died on August 19 following a three-week illness. He is survived by his wife and two children.

The 1969 issue of the Cauldron has just been published. The Cauldron is a literary magazine exhibiting creative work done by Kalamazoo College students during the year. This year's magazine features a letter from poet Edward Field and an interview with New York poetess Diane Wakoski. Alumni wishing a copy of this student publication may send $1.00 to Cauldron, c/o Miss Susan Beardsley, Trowbridge House, Kalamazoo College. The fee covers the cost of the magazine and handling charges.

Kalamazoo College has officially ended its 29th Annual Fund campaign, launched last fall, with the achievement of an all-time high of $226,311.

Dr. Thomas Kilgore, the newly-elected president of the American Baptist Convention, visited Kalamazoo College in August and met with College officials, students, and community leaders. Dr. Kilgore, a black civil rights activist, was the first Negro elected to head the Baptist organization. Shown with him in the photo are faculty members Dr. Laurence N. Barrett, Dr. Lester J. Start, Dr. Richard L. Means, and Robert B. Meyers.

Highlighting the campaign, characterized by College President Weimer K. Hicks as "our most successful Annual Fund," was a 30% increase in contributions from business and industry. This increase resulted, in part, from additional corporate gifts matching employee contributions and from the tax credit available to Michigan businesses which give financial support to institutions of higher education in Michigan. In addition, faculty and staff giving was up 18% and parents' contributions increased 16%.

Co-chairmen of the successful campaign were Marshall H. Rutz, a 1934 "K" graduate and director of research and development for Brown Company in Kalamazoo, and Ted Hartleb, Jr., a 1950 graduate and representative of the Equitable Life Assurance Society.

Leaders of the special gifts phase of the drive were Kenneth Krum, a 1945 graduate and owner of a Chevrolet dealership in Vicksburg, and Charles E. Garrett, Jr., a 1942 "K" graduate who is a partner in the Garrett Agency, Inc., and alumni-trustee.

FOOTBALL ANNIVERSARY

Homecoming will celebrate the 75th season of football at "K" College and will open with a get-together on Friday evening, October 17, for former football players and their wives. Jon Labahn ’61, alumni K-Club president, promises other anniversary recognition including a special program at the annual Homecoming luncheon, October 18, preceding the football game with Adrian College.

During the years, there have been four undefeated Hornet teams — 1898, 1916, 1936, and 1962. Here is what they looked like!

Kalamazoo College will join every other football-playing college in the nation in celebrating collegiate football’s centennial in the fall of 1969. And, by coincidence, Kalamazoo will also be celebrating its 75th season of competition in football, so that the local observance will have a dual meaning.

The very first college football game ever played took place in the fall of 1869, when Rutgers University defeated Princeton University. Many other schools took up the sport in the next quarter-century, and Kalamazoo College fielded its first football team in 1892 when two games were arranged with Olivet College.

Thus, the actual 75th anniversary of Kalamazoo’s football start was celebrated in the fall of 1967, but since the Hornets were absent from competition during the second World War, the 1969 season will actually be the 75th over a 77-year span.

Incidentally, although Kalamazoo College football has no direct connection with Princeton, the orange and black colors worn by Hornet teams were the idea of a Princeton graduate. In the early 1900’s, when Kalamazoo was about to select colors for its teams, a Kalamazoo faculty member who had attended Princeton suggested that his alma mater’s orange and black was a most impressive combination. The colors were adopted, but a further suggestion that Kalamazoo copy Princeton’s Tiger nickname did not become reality.

Ed Baker, the 18th individual to coach Kalamazoo football since the start of the game here, expected to greet 18 lettermen as plans for the 1969 season got underway. The group included a trio of 1969 captains, Dick Obrig, Lee Belfield, and Steve McGuire. All three are linemen. The other 15 lettermen include some players for almost every position on offense and defense, but while the letterman group includes some experienced leaders, the badly-needed depth to fill out the varsity squad will have to be found somewhere in the crop of incoming freshmen.

A year ago, Kalamazoo played five games at home, and only three on the road, but the 1969 schedule has a balance with four home and four away games. The only change in opponents finds Wayne State replacing Ohio Northern, with Lake Forest and Hiram returning along with the usual five MIAA opponents.

Homecoming will be celebrated on Saturday, October 18, when the Hornets meet Adrian. Special ceremonies observing both the collegiate football centennial and the 75th Kalamazoo season will be held on that weekend.
