Comments about the 1966 Bach Festival:

Joanna Simon:
"The Bach Festival of Kalamazoo ranks among the finest Bach Festivals I have encountered in America. It was a delight to hear Bach performed with such refinement and style, and a great joy to sing to such a knowing and appreciative audience."

Mary Munroe:
"... I sensed that everyone was working together to create a truly first-rate musical experience. There was a genuine enthusiasm and respect for the music of Bach, not only from the performers themselves, but also from the audience of fine listeners. Kalamazoo should be proud, and consider its community very fortunate to claim such an outstanding organization."

Henry Nason:
"... one of the hallmarks of the Bach Festival is the enthusiasm and dedication of all the participants, from the conductor himself to every member of the chorus and orchestra... My appearances in Kalamazoo have reinforced my belief that your Festival contributes importantly to sustaining the high level of interest found in the Music of Bach in America today, and that it will endure.

Kalamazoo Gazette:
"The audience's standing ovation left no doubt that almost unbelievable accomplishment of the past few months was recognized."
